School Put In Lock in

On October 22, 2012 at approximately 1:04 p.m. Beaverton High School was placed in a lock-in as a precaution.

This was done as a result of a report by a student that while in the hall at school she heard a unknown female student make a statement about a shooting occurring in the school. The student that reported this also told them that after she heard the threat, she saw three male students in the hall wearing camouflage clothing and this scared her.

The Beaverton Police Department and the Beaverton School District placed Beaverton High School into a lock-in while these threats were investigated. Officers contacted the students that were seen in camouflage clothing and determined that they were not involved in the threat that was overheard in the school and that there was no threat to the safety of the students or staff. The lock-in was cleared at 2:20 p.m. and the students were released from school.

The School Resource Officer will continue to attempt to identify the female student that made the threat and determine why she did that.

The Beaverton Police Department and the Beaverton School District take all threats serious until they are proven not to be.
